Good Afternoon Parents,

We hope your child has had a wonderful first week of school. We've heard nothing but positives from all the staff and teachers! Thank you for sharing your child with us!

Just a reminder that there is no school tomorrow, Friday, September 3 or Monday, September 6 for Labor Day.

Some of you may have noticed that there is a new yellow sign in the staff parking lot indicating permit parking only. This is new, so we wanted to share with you that if you do not have a yellow permit handed out by the school and are parked in this area, you could be ticketed or towed. With this being the area where the busses pick up and drop off, student safety is our top priority. The main parking lot is across from the first station, and all are free to park in that lot. If you choose to park on the hill or behind the school, we encourage all students to cross using the cross walk with the assistance of an adult. We appreciate your attention to this matter and helping ensure everyone gets home safely.

If your child would like to eat breakfast at school, which is free for all again this year, you are welcome pull through the staff parking lot for curbside drop off. To help keep traffic flowing, please pull forward as far as you can and make it a quick drop off. If you stop and park there, busses and other parents are prevented from pulling creating a traffic jam. Thank you for your help in this matter.

Thank you again for a great first week of school!

We look forward to seeing you on Tuesday, September 7!
